

Thanksgiving Day

The Old Testament reading from the Prophet Isaiah recalls all the favors the Lord has done for His people. Favoring them with His great mercy and kindness. He comes to save them in their every affliction. His salvation comes not through an angel or some other messenger but rather He Himself comes to save us. In this thought the Messiah is foretold.

St. Paul in His letter to the Corinthians identifies this Savior by name. It is Jesus who is the long expected one spoken of throughout the Old Testament who comes and saves His people. The favor of the Lord is lived out in Him.

In Luke's account of the parable of the ten lepers, Jesus teaches an important lesson to those around Him and us as well. Giving thanks to God for His great favors to us should be our constant action. Each of us has so many things to be grateful for every day.

As we celebrate this Thanksgiving Day, we offer to God thanks from our hearts and give Him our praise for His kindness and mercy. The Priests and staff of our parish wish you and those you love a blessed Thanksgiving.

Peace,

Fr. Robert

P.S. Your generosity to the poor through your food and clothing donations is a true inspiration to me. Thank you!
